

Leibniz Institute for East and Southeast European Studies (IOS) Regensburg

The Leibniz Institute for East and Southeast European Studies (IOS) is an interdisciplinary area studies research center in Regensburg. IOS explores the historical, economic, and political developments of Eastern and South-eastern Europe in a transnational and comparative perspective. It pursues research in two main research fields: processes of (de-)institutionalization; inequality and mobility. In 2017, IOS joined the Leibniz Association, one of the leading associations of research institutions in Germany and as such, is funded jointly by the Free State of Bavaria and the Federal Government. IOS closely cooperates with the University of Regensburg. Together, they have established the Leibniz-ScienceCampus “Europe and America in the Modern World”.

To strengthen our team of research economists, we invite applications for a full-time position as starting as soon as possible.

Remuneration is based on the German TV-L public pay scale, salary group E13. The appointment is initially for two years, with the possibility of extension.

We invite applications from researchers with strong interest in the behavior of firms, specifically in the fields of trade or growth. The researcher is expected to contribute to the main research fields of IOS.

Applicants are expected to have a PhD in economics (or be close to completion), research experience and strong econometric skills. Prior experience with survey design is desirable. A publication record in internationally peer-reviewed journals is an asset, as is knowledge of German and interest in interdisciplinary co-operation.

The successful candidate will publish articles in international peer-reviewed journals, present research results at conferences, and contribute to third-party funding applications.

IOS encourages and supports habilitations at the University of Regensburg. The successful candidate is also expected to contribute to the further acquisition of third-party projects by designing, implementing, and leading projects in her/his area of research.

IOS, together with the University of Regensburg, provides an attractive academic environment. The city of Regensburg is a charming location in southern Germany (Bavaria), registered on the UNESCO World Heritage List.

Please submit your application online via the IOS application portal at <https://www.ios-regensburg.de/en/-vacancies.html> and upload your cover letter, CV including publication list, transcripts, two references, who can be contacted via e-mail and three sample research papers (published or unpublished). Documents must be in pdf format. Applications via email will not be accepted.

Interested candidates may contact Prof. Richard Frensch (frensch@ios-regensburg.de) for more information.

Deadline for applications: January 8, 2021.

IOS Regensburg is an equal opportunity employer.
